BEAD.LLC is a small single-member LLC founded by Shane Bruce initially for government contracting purposes but has found a place in private sector as a provider of solutions. With the advent of the Cloud, the daily tasks and overhead of maintaining in-house servers, however we might miss having hands-on the 'big iron', has been made if not easier, cheaper, so everyone is going all-remote. This is an evolution of the workplace of which we are proud.

We've a seemingly simple idea to look at projects and then collect those best able to perform the tasks to work remotely from around the world. We are innovators and developing flagship solutions in field tele-work in sensitive and difficult government areas in the 1990's. Our work the herald in dozens of conferences, Senate showings and symposium of the Inter-Net. Now we utilize the tech for value-added work products and a "Hello World!" for your company.

Now with the pandemics, most are struggling to understand and migrate to home offices. It is the age of the Cloud. Give us your work and we will be the specialized tech developers and administrators. This is an opportune time to be among our first clients. We can focus on your specific needs and conditions. We can still utilize off-the-shelf solutions to fill needs, the scientists which are a one-click virtual presence away, who customize your enterprises experience.
